MISARRIAGE OF JUSTICE.

The case of the Territory vs. William Stiles for the shooting of George Bravin at the time of the release of Bravo Juan and Bart Alvord was dismissed on motion of the district attorney last week, who represented that sufficient evidence was not now obtainable to put the defendant on trial.

The above action of the district attorney ends the case of the Territory vs. William Stiles.

The fact still remains, however, that Stiles participated in the Cochise hold up; that he afterwards turned state's evidence and caused the arrest of Alvord and Bravo Juan; that he again appeared on the scene at the Tombstone court house and shot George Bravin and secured the release of Alvord and Bravo Juan. After this daring liberation of prisoners he is again heard from as a state witness in the Downing trial, and as a result of all the expense incidental to trials and conviction Downing is the only one to pay the penalty.

The cause for this state of affairs is an agreement in which the district attorney figured quite prominently, whereby it was stipulated that in recognition of his services as a witness Mr. Stiles should have his freedom, and as a result Robert Downing, the least guilty of the trio, is serving a term at Yuma.

As a case of miscarriage of justice the above is the most flagrant instance on record in the Cochise county court. As a manipulator of Wells-Fargo detectives, district attorneys, special attorneys and the whole line of government officials Stiles is deserving of a prominent place in the history of sharp criminals. Out of a covey of four the prosecution secured one and sacrificed three, all through the efforts of the artful dodger.

The fact remains that Stiles shot jailer George Bravin and liberated Alvord and Bravo Juan, train robbers. There is ample testimony on this point. Still the case is dismissed by the district attorney for lack of evidence. Bah!

A BOLD HOLD UP.

Witnesses at the present term of court, who were to appear before the grand jury, were summoned to Tombstone Monday, December 2. Upon their arrival it was learned that the grand jury would not convene until Wednesday.

Business men from all parts of the county found themselves at the county seat with two days before them and nothing to do.

No doubt they managed to pass the time pleasantly. Tombstone people are noted for their hospitality—if you pay as you go. We are loth to believe that the district attorney would subpoena a hundred witnesses to Tombstone on a vacation of two days, knowing that the grand jury would not convene until Wednesday, but such was the case.

One hundred witnesses in Tombstone for two days with nothing to do but see the sights, meant several hundred dollars put in circulation that would otherwise never have been spent. The witnesses were the losers; Tombstone the winner.

The Southern Pacific pay car was captured in Nogales last week with twenty three boxes of smuggled cigars on board. Paymaster Robinson, a colored porter and cook were held by the custom house officers until released on a telegraphic order from Secretary Gage at Washington, having previously given a $400 bond. It is believed that there is a dead case against all concerned and that they are almost certain of being held for the United States grand jury. The law when properly enforced is no respecter of persons.

REPORTS from Tombstone are to the effect that Judge Davis is giving close attention to the trial of the case entitled "Copper Queen Consolidated Company vs. Cochise county." Each authority quoted is carefully noted and the arguments of opposing counsel are closely followed. The decision of the court, whether it be for or against the county, will be the result of serious thought and study and decided solely on questions of law and equity. Such is the opinion of the lawyers and litigants on both sides of the case.

ALONG what line of argument the Los Angeles Times reaches the learned (?) opinion that Arizona should not be admitted to the sisterhood of states is beyond comprehension. Two senators from Arizona would mean two more votes in the senate for bills for the benefit and upbuilding of the Pacific coast. The interests of Arizona and southern California are identical, still the editorial writer on the Times is so small he views everything from a strictly partisan point of view.

THE Senate committee on Foreign relations voted on Saturday to favorably report the Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty. The day of the commencement of work on the big ditch will be a red letter day in the history of the United States.

NOT long since the Tucson Star published an article regarding the loss by W. C. Greene of one-fourth of his stock in the Greene Consolidated Copper company by virtue of a judgment of a New York court, on the article stated. It now transpires that no such judgment was ever rendered and by private advice from New York the Review learns the Star man is to be made the defendant in a libel suit to the tune of $50,000. Verily the way of the editor is not strewn with roses.

Found Dead Near Wilcox.

Monday morning the young son of Agapito Morales was out hunting some horses and about one mile south of the railroad depot came across a dead body badly decomposed. He at once came to town and notified the officers. The coroner impelled a jury and went out to review the remains. The eight that met them was sickening. The body lay on the back wrapped in several blankets and a wagon sheet, the corners of the wagon sheet were tied across his legs. The face and breast were exposed and badly decomposed. The right temple was crushed in, and one foot was gone. No shoes nor hat could be found near the body. The blankets were stained with blood.

The remains were brought into town and viewed by many for the purpose of furnishing a clue to its identification. The coroner jury consisted of T. D. Fulghum, Archie Shaw, Ed Sutton, Amos Marion, Frank Steubing and John McCloskey.

Dr. R. A. Alton examined the remains and reported that the ragged edges of the broken skull indicated that it was crushed by the blow of a heavy blunt instrument.

The jury returned the verdict that the identity of the person was to them unknown, that they believed that the man had been murdered by unknown parties at a distance and brought to that place. They further found that the deceased was about 40 or 50 years of age, height 4 feet 5 inches, and weighed in life about 130 pounds. The remains were buried in the cemetery at Wilcox.—Wilcox Range News.

Other baking powder would be as good as Schilling's Best if they used as good soda and cream of tartar.

Yes; and if they knew how—that's a great big part of it.
